خلاصه مقاله:

Recently, there has been a great development in the scientific and academic discipline of Language learning. One of these developments is overemphasizing the learner factors and individual differences among which one can name creativity, EQ, and learning styles in language pedagogy. The reason for such increasing focus on individual differences is the researchers' belief that the individual differences influence the rate of language learning and language achievements. Many researches and studies have emphasized the role of EQ, creativity and learning style in successful language learning

کلمات کلیدی:

EQ, Creativity, Learning Style, successful Language Learners
